

Hiro and Kai Save Hana — Alien Blaster Battle

A laser tag adventure starring Hiro, Kai, and Hana of Austin, Texas.

Hiro, Kai, and baby sister Hana of Austin, Texas, were about to have the biggest laser tag day ever. Illustrated and written by Mom and Dad

Hiro and Kai charged their glowing taggers and snapped on their vests. Zap-ready!

The family walked to the park, and Hana toddled along, giggling at every step.

The sky flickered, and a round polka-dot saucer landed on the soccer field. Whoosh!

The Blips hopped out, three-eyed and goofy, and challenged Earth's best laser tag team.

A Blip zapped a bubble beam, and Hana, Mommy, and Daddy floated up. Win, or Earth goes too!

First to ten tags wins, then tag the power core. Hiro goes left. Kai goes right.

Game on! They sprinted between barriers as purple beams zipped past. Zoom!

Kai tagged his first Blip. Its vest flashed, and it plopped down to sit out. Earth one!

Three Blips sneaked around the slide and tagged Hiro's vest. The Blips pulled ahead.

From the bubble, Hana pointed and squealed at Blips hiding behind the oak tree.

Hiro drew their fire while Kai slid under the monkey bars and tagged two Blips. Yes!

At the glowing Blip base, beams crisscrossed. The score was tied, nine to nine.

Only the power core was left, glowing on the saucer, guarded by the biggest Blip.

Hiro and Kai fired together. Their beams tagged the core, Earth won ten to nine, and Hana cheered!

The bubble popped into sparkles, and Hana, Mommy, and Daddy floated down into a big hug.

The Blips shook hands, admitted a fair loss, and promised to leave Earth alone.

The saucer zoomed away over the Austin skyline, blinking a silly goodbye.

Walking home under the live oaks, Daddy carried Hana on his shoulders.

Victory pizza steamed on the table, and the whole family dug in. Mmm!

The boys retold the double-beam shot, and Hana made a loud zap sound. Zap!

At bedtime, Hana fell asleep hugging her blanket while the boys whispered.

Hiro set his tagger by the bed and spotted one blinking light far up in the sky.

For Hiro, Kai, and Hana, who never miss a target. Love,
Mom and Dad.